Excellency,

I express my appreciation to all States for the active engagement during these almost two weeks of the Fourth Review Conference (RevCon4) on the Programme of Action.

As announced in my letter dated 19 June, I am pleased to share with you today the next iteration of the draft outcome document “draft 3” as a conference room paper. Attached is one clean version and one with track changes from the “draft 2”. The document has also been made available for everyone on the RevCon4 website.

It is my sincere hope that this “draft 3” will forge consensus. It attempts to incorporate as many State suggestions as possible, raised in the plenary, the facilitated informal consultations, bilateral meetings, as well as written inputs. You will also see that the text proposed by the facilitators has been included.

We will hear reactions to this draft, section by section, focused on only critical elements that might still require further revision tomorrow, starting at 11 am.

Please accept, Excellency, the renewed assurances of my highest consideration.

Maritza Chan Valverde
President of the fourth Review Conference
